ATEAM

AGRICULTURE TRADE ADVISORY MECHANISM

TO ADDRESS TRADE BARRIERS

The Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries is in the process of establishing an Agriculture Trade Enforcement Advisory Mechanism (ATEAM), which will serve as a joint government and business partnership to remove unjustified trade restrictions.

The rationale for the establishment of the ATEAM is based on the recognition that there is a need for increased coordination and collaboration among entities whose work coalesces around issues of international trade, as the nature of trade as a cross-cutting discipline makes a multidisciplinary approach both efficient and effective. As a result, the ATEAM will work in an integrated manner on current and emerging agricultural trade issues through a structured mechanism, which will prove to be valuable, given the importance of assessing varied perspectives in the policy development process.

Membership and Governance

The ATEAM will comprise the following Ministries, Departments and Agencies (MDAs)

- Bureau of Standards Jamaica.
- Plant Quarantine and Produce Inspection Division
- Veterinary Services Division.
- Ministry of Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade
- Jamaica Manufacturers & Exporters Association
- Ministry of Industry, Investment and Commerce

Achievements to date

- Terms of Reference developed
- Implementation Plan developed
- Strategic partnerships established with JAMPRO, JMEA, Bureau of Standards

Next Steps

- The ATEAM will be launched in August of 2021

WTO NEGOTIATIONS ON FISHERIES SUBSIDIES

The World Trade Organization (WTO) is working assiduously to conclude the negotiations on Fisheries Subsidies. The mandate is to 'clarify and improve' existing WTO disciplines on Fisheries Subsidies. A virtual meeting of ministers took place on July 15, 2021 to advance negotiations on mitigating harmful subsidies. Ministers were guided by a set of questions and discussed the way forward.

JAMAICA'S POSITION

Jamaica would like to ensure that any discipline adopted will not affect its ability to develop the fisheries sector. As such, Jamaica is seeking the provision of policy space to support artisanal fisheries. Additionally, the disciplines should not hinder Jamaica's ability to transform the sector. Jamaica will continue to press through the ACP Group the case for its interests to be addressed in the negotiations.

CARICOM RULES OF ORIGIN AND COMMON EXTERNAL TARIFF (CET) UNDER REVISION

The CARICOM Secretariat is in the process of reviewing the Rules of Origin (RoO). RoO are used by governments to determine the country in which imported goods should be treated as having been produced.

For imports under preferential trade agreements, importing countries have to ensure that the lower or preferential rates are made available to products from preference-receiving countries. As such, they need evidence to show that the imported product has been, if not wholly produced, substantially transformed in a preference-receiving country.

With the review of the RoO, our local industries stand to benefit from the modernization of these two regional trade policy instruments as we are now presented with the opportunity to make the rules more favourable for our industries.
